What to bring

•Laptop computer (and an electricity plug that works in Japan).

Japan has a different voltage system (100 Volt) than most other parts of the world. Some of your electronic equipment (computers, cameras, phones etc.) might not work without a power converter. You will also require a power plug converter. More details about electricity in Japan can be found at the following web-page: <https://www.power-plugs-sockets.com/japan/>

•SUICA or PASMO card (rechargeable transport card):

- This is the only way to pay for lunch in the RIKEN restaurant and there are little available lunch options around the campus.

- Non Japanese residents can buy a Welcome SUICA. The card is rechargeable (cash only) and can be used on local transportation and in many stores as well. The on-campus store will accept cash and credit cards and also transportation card payments.

We recommend buying the card at Narita/Haneda Airport just after arrival.

Transport cards can be charged at train station vending machines, at the RIKEN cafeteria and RIKEN convenience store as well as regular convenience stores such as Seven Eleven, Lawson etc.
